

Robert D. San Souci, 2008

For the past three years, we've been fortunate enough to have a notable author come to our school to speak to our students. In 2008, it was Robert D. San Souci. Mr. San Souci has written over 80 picture books, folktales, and story collections for children. Many of the stories he retells are old African American legends, and Cinderella stories from around the world.

In 2009, we had Jon Agee, a wonderful illustrator and author of numerous books of palindromes, as well as picture books.

Jon drew these pictures during his very entertaining presentation.

Jon's first palindrome

Another palindrome

In 2010, David Schwartz visited our school on March 9th. David is the author of How Much is a Million, Millions to Measure, On Beyond a Million, and If You Made a Million, among other books. He brought bags of popcorn to demonstrate relative size.

In the picture on the right, David is showing us pages from his new book, What in the Wild, which will be available in September, 2010.

